When faced with impossible odds, generations of Americans have responded with a simple creed that sums up the spirit of a people:

Yes we can!

This campaign is about opening the minds of the people with the actual decision making power. When it comes to reaching the mass public, we can't yet compete with a mainstream media owned by just 5 major corporations which in turn are owned by the very interest Ron Paul and other constitutionalists threaten.

But when we target our messages to the actual decision makers, the people with the real power in these contests, we find we actually can compete.

Our first action is to reach the National Delegates and Alternates to the Republican National Convention this September. Many of them have been misinformed about our movement. We know Dr. Paul, for example, received far less media coverage than any major candidate in January and February, despite having the highest campaign contributions from individuals and especially from military personnel and veterans in December. While he set a world record in 1-day fundraising, the media began to ignore him.

We know that the media are mainly owned and controlled by the same people and interest that own and control the Federal Reserve Banks and the now vast military-industrial-pharmaceutical-agribusiness complex.

But we also know that while it may seem like we are David taking on Goliath, the reality is that we represent millions of self-aware, studied patriots, and we can win. We just have to be really smart and not give up. This project will cost between $50,000 and $200,000 to do it right and right now. That is nothing in the scheme of political spending, but it is everything we will need to reach our delegates with material they've never seen. If we receive contributions on the low end, we will still do this, just with less new footage. If we get all we need, we can blow their minds with really good footage putting it all together. That starts with you.
